

FOOD À PORTER

---

Lunch pot

Name: Food à porter

Code: SA03

Designer: Sakura Adachi

---

---

Product description

---

Food à porter is a collection of food and beverage containers that allows you to carry your lunch with you to eat it wherever you want. Designed by Japanese designer Sakura Adachi just like fashion accessories, Food à porter containers have a refined design, characterised by meticulously defined colours, details and finishes. The name expresses precisely this dual nature, the functional aspect and the strong aesthetic value envisioned by the designer for the objects in this original collection.

The collection includes a lunch box, designed in 2018, to which a Lunch pot, a thermal bottle and a set of cutlery with case are being added in 2020.

Characteristics / suggested use

- The lunch box comprises two PBT thermoplastic resin containers, plus two lids with silicone seals. A removable cooling element is positioned between the two containers. ((fig. 1) The set is completed with a silicone band for transport.
- The thermoplastic resin used to make the containers is food safe. Odourless, tasteless and totally Bisphenol A (BPA) free. 100% recyclable
- The lids press onto the containers.
- The two containers screw together. A small thread allows the two containers to be screwed together, ensuring perfect coupling. (fig.3)
- The capacity of the top container is 200 ml, with the lower container holding 500 ml. (fig.2)
- The cooling element can maintain the temperature for about 4 hours.
- The outer surface of the top container is glossy, while the lower container has a matt finish. The interior surface of both containers is glossy.
- The alternation of glossy and matt finishes on the surfaces of the containers is a tribute by the designer to the ancient Japanese tradition for the use of lacquers and enhances the formal sophistication of these objects
- The glossy inner surface makes it easier to clean the containers
- Equipped with a silicone strap that ends in a handle allowing you to carry the Lunch pot like a handbag.
- Spacious, compact and extremely versatile thanks to the presence of two lids and the possibility to insert the cooling element, the Lunch pot can be used to carry and consume a variety of foods: salads, yoghurt and cereals, pasta, soups...
- If warming your food, the containers are suitable for microwave heating only.
- The lids have a small opening, closed by a silicone cap. The lids indicate the time and power limits applicable when using the microwave: a time of no more than 3 minutes and a maximum power of 500.
- Before placing the containers in the microwave, the cap must be opened so that the steam produced can escape during heating. The cap can also be opened to make it easier to remove the lid that hermetically seals the container. (fig.4)
- On the base of the bottom container, there are symbols to indicate performance: suitable for food contact, dishwasher safe, suitable for microwave use.
- Available in four colour versions: red, grey or yellow containers and band; or light blue containers with pink band.
- The lids in all four versions are grey
- The containers are dishwasher safe, as long as they are placed in the upper rack so that they do not come into contact with the heating elements. The silicone band must be washed by hand using a neutral detergent.
Do not use abrasive sponges or detergents when washing by hand.
- The ideal accessory for lunch in the office, at school or outdoors. A perfect companion for those who prefer to eat food prepared at home or who have to follow a special diet.

fig. 1

fig. 2

fig. 3

fig. 4

Technical notes

SA03 AZ Food à porter Two-compartment lunch pot in thermoplastic resin, light blue.

SA03 G Food à porter Two-compartment lunch pot in thermoplastic resin, grey.

SA03 R Food à porter Two-compartment lunch pot in thermoplastic resin, red.

SA03 Y Two-compartment lunch pot in thermoplastic resin, yellow.

cl 50 - Ø cm 11 - h cm 15 / 17 ¾ oz - Ø 4¼" - h 6"

Metaproject notes

Living in a hectic lifestyle, a little break is an essential moment not only to refresh and re-energize yourself but also to keep you in good shape. Take your favorite food from home with Food à Porter collection, eat and drink healthily on the go wherever you are at work, at the park or even on the journey to your destination.

Their sleek and stylish look and clutch bag like forms let you feel free to carry your food from home. Food à Porter products also blends well with your professional look and personal items.

Sakura Adachi